

Shooting Star, performed by Pat Benatar

Am

he was crazy, of course

G F

from the first she must have known it

G

but she  went on with him

G Am

and never once had shown it

Am

she took him off the streets

G F

and she dried his tears of grieving

G

she believed in his believing

C Am G

oh he was the sun burning bright and brittle and she was the moon shining back his light a little

F G

he was a shooting star, she was softer and more slowly

Am

he could not make things possible

F Am

but she could make them holy - holy

Am G

well she gave him a daughter and she gave him a son

G F

she was a mother and a wife, and a lover when the day was done

Am

when he was too far gone for giving love

what he offered her instead

Am

was the knowledge she was the only thing

F Am

that was not in his head
